Staged reading about the trial surrounding Proposition 8.

Email Dimi at dvenkov@utk.edu if you are interested in reading; he is short 3-4 readers. No acting experience required.

Main thing Dimi is struggling with is getting a panel to speak after the reading; email him if you have any leads.

Send a note to Margie Nichols to get it in Tennessee Today.

V. Volunteer Opportunities; Communications and Community Relations Co-Chair Megan Venable Smith

Megan handed out a sheet with volunteer opportunities; it is mostly FYS panels.

If you are able to sign up, please do.

Erin Read has been in contact with a professor who said that she doesn't have any preconceived notions about what the FYS panel should be like.

Some panels are general "diversity" panels, some are specific to LGBT diversity.

VI. Lambda Student Union; Lambda President Caitlin Miller

They are now part of the Queer College Coalition for TN.

Slam poet Andrea Gibson will be here - 6:00pm on October 23n the BCC. The next day she will be doing a gender theory workshop.

VII. Committee Reports and Membership

a. Alumni Development, Co-Chairs Wendy Bach & Phyliss Shey

1. Haven't met yet. Biggest project of the year will likely be an Alumni event in the Spring. Other goal is to broaden connection with UT Alumni Association.

b. Awards, Chair Melissa Bartsch

1. Two big events are Lavender Graduation, and to seek nominations & conduct voting for the Commission's Awards. These events are both in the Spring.

c. Communications & Community Relations, Co-Chairs Megan Venable Smith & Zach Brown

1. Big tasks are trying to get volunteers signed up for Volunteer opportunities and taking advantage of any promotional activities. Let them know if there is anything you need support for.

d. Equity and Issues, Co-Chairs Michael Ariale & Juliet Meggs

1. Projects they are thinking about: conducting qualitative, informal interviews regarding the campus climate; Trans 101 and getting it on UT's LGBT website; Transgender Day of Remembrance in November in Knoxville (there is currently one in Maryville); grant program to promote LGBT research

e. Membership, Chair Lars Dzikus

1. Big tasks are to recruit members to this Commission and to recruit new chairs/co-chairs. Finding leadership has been a tough challenge. The past chair encouraged us to start early. We also may need to re-asses the makeup of this group and raise representation of full professors.

f. OUTreach, Chair Donna Braquet

1. To provide support for on-going Commission programs and liaisons as required for long-term LGBTQ related programs in the University as a whole.

Safe Zone (Rosie Sasso is the current liaison) and Mentoring programs (Luke Garton). We need more mentees for the Mentoring program.

VIII. Announcements & New Business

- 1. Jenny spoke about the Vice Chancellor for Diversity position. There were about 90 Applicants. Some rejections have been sent out. They haven't set an absolute timeline, or start date (although that would be subject to negotiations with person who gets hired). Commissions would report to Vice Chancellor for Diversity, but concern is that the Commissions might lose connection with Chancellor. Chancellor has said that he still wants direct contact with Commission chairs.
- 2. Joel: UT Housing conducted EBI Survey and added a question "I identify as a member of the LGBTQ Community," yes/no. Out of 3,984, 176 answered "yes." 4.42% of total respondents. The number might be higher in the Fall (housing numbers are lower in the Spring)
- 3. Rosie: Safe Zone trainings will be held on September 13, October 11, and November 9. More information at safezone.utk.edu.
- 4. Juliet: Trans 101 will be continuing this year. She is speaking to some classes; if you need her to speak in a class, let her know.
- 5. Melissa: LGBTQ support group continues this semester. UC 217 Tuesdays from 5-6:30. Free, confidential, students can drop in. They don't have to be Counseling Center affiliated.
- 6. Jenny: The counseling center is doing a QPR training from 9-10:30 on Thursday in Student Counseling Room 204. Chamique Holdsclaw will be here speaking about her book and presenting on Wednesday in the UC at 2pm. They will be filming the presentation for a documentary about her. Contact: Connie Briscoe (briscoe@utk.edu).
- 7. Jess: Do we know where the demographic information has gone and whether we will get it? Keith doesn't know because he hasn't met with the Chancellor or the Provost yet but he hopes to inquire about those things. But Jenny did say that HR has requested for the information on surveys that the Equity and Issues committee did last year.

Chancellor's Commission for LGBT People
Meeting Agenda
Monday, October 1 12:00 noon 605 Hodges Library

- I. Approval of minutes from September meeting Minutes approved unanimously
- II. History of the Chancellor's Commission for LGBT People; OUTreach Chair Donna Braquet
Donna gave a comprehensive history of the Commission for the benefit of newer members, from the Commission's beginning in 2005 when Bharat Mehra and Donna interviewed 21 LGBT people on campus to assess the need and made an official ask of then-Chancellor Loren Crabtree, to the first meeting in 2006 after the Chancellor's answer came, to the events of 2007 and 2008 when sexual orientation and gender identity were added to the university's non-discrimination statement (EEO/AA statement), to 2009 when a partner hiring program was announced and SafeZone was created, to 2010 when the OUTreach Center opened, to 2011 when the Commission elected its first ally co-chair, to this year, when the Trans Taskforce was established, the first Lavender Graduation was held, and the Faculty Senate passed a resolution in support of domestic partner benefits.
- III. OUTstanding: A Seminar Exploring LGBTIQ Diversity at the University of Tennessee; Saturday, October 13th—Carolyn Brown University Center; register at <http://outstandingseminar.wordpress.com/attend/>; Planning Co-Chair Joseph Goeltz
OUTstanding is in its second year, and it's coming up very soon. Please encourage students, especially undergrads, to register and attend. The keynote speaker was discharged from the US military under Don't Ask, Don't Tell, and has since come out and campaigned against the policy.
- IV. "8" the Play; Dimi Venkov
The cast list is complete for "8," and posters will be ready in about 10 days. Please contact Megan Venable Smith (msmith93@utk.edu) to get some posters for your department or area. The speaker list for the panel scheduled to follow the reading of the play is not yet set, though it will be soon. The play is November 5 at 7pm, admission is free, though donations are being taken for the American Foundation for Equal Rights. We had originally hoped the timing of the play would coincide with Supreme Court arguments about Prop 8, though it now seems likely the Court will not hear that case, but rather hear the case against DOMA.
- V. Trans 101, 102, and 103 –5:30-7:30 in Hodges 253; Equity and Diversity Co-Chair Juliet Meggs
 - a. October 18 – Trans 101: Basics of Gender Identity and Expression
 - b. October 25 – Trans 102: Media Portrayals and Violence Against Trans People
 - c. November 1 – Trans 103: How to be a Good Ally for Trans People
This series is open to anyone, so please do encourage students to attend, or please consider attending yourself if you missed it when it was offered last year. The third installment has a lot of more general information about being an ally to any minority group, with some specific information related to being an ally for transgender people.

- VI. Lambda Student Union Update; Lambda President Caitlin Miller
The Cookies & Condoms event went very well (free condoms, free & confidential AIDS testing), and poet Andrea Gibson will be on campus performing on October 23. You'll receive more information via email, so please keep your eyes open for it!
- VII. Chancellor's Council for Diversity and Interculturalism Meeting; Chair Keith Kirkland
An issue of particular interest came up at the last CDI meeting:
--Employee Engagement Survey: There have been two of these surveys completed so far, one for faculty and exempt staff, and a second for exempt and non-exempt staff. Exempt staff were included on both because their response rate was quite low the first time around. However, this also robs the sexual orientation data (and much of the other data for exempt staff) of any statistical significance. The raw numbers will be published online, however, and Keith will email us the link. Basically, 1222 people responded, and of those 18% declined to answer the sexual orientation questions, 77% indicated heterosexual, and under 5% indicated LGB status. The next round of this survey will be in 2014, and we need to talk with administration and CDI to make sure questions about sexual orientation and gender identity appear on this round, and that statistical significance is preserved. We need to definitely keep our ears open around the end of 2013 as the questions are being developed.
- VIII. Employee Engagement Survey; Chair Keith Kirkland See VII.
- IX. Diversity Plan Progress; Chair Keith Kirkland
It was decided in the past year that all academic and nonacademic units at UTK must develop a diversity plan with criteria, goals for the future, and measurements of progress. Academic units have responded quickly, but nonacademic units have been slower. It would be great to have all these plans in place by the time the new Vice Chancellor for Diversity starts, probably next semester. Units are to update their plans every four years, and make progress reports (presumably to the VC for Diversity) every two years. If you work in a nonacademic unit, please encourage your leadership to set aside time for this project.
- X. Vice Chancellor for Diversity Search, Jenny Moshak
- a. Candidate 1 – October 4, 9:00-10:15, Open Forum, Shiloh Room, 235 University Center
 - b. Candidate 2 – October 5, 9:30-10:45, Open Forum, Shiloh Room, 235 University Center
 - c. Candidate 3 – October 15, 1:30-2:30, Open Forum, Shiloh Room, 235 University Center
 - d. Candidate 4 – October 18, 9:30-10:45, Open Forum, Shiloh Room, 235 University Center

Candidate names have not yet been announced, though Keith will send them to us very soon once they are announced. Please make every effort to attend these open forums, as this is our chance to show that LGBT issues matter to students, faculty and staff on a widespread basis. Be vocal and tough with your questions! This is our time to hear how these candidates plan to serve our community. And please do offer feedback to the Commission. Erin Read will be representing the Commission at private meetings with the candidates (along with representatives from the other Commissions), and if you have specific questions you'd like her to include, please email her at erin.read@knoxcounty.org.

XI. Faculty Senate Resolution on Benefit Equality Response Letter & Open Letter; Commission Chair Keith Kirkland

Thank you to everyone who helped disseminate Keith's open letter to Chancellors Cheek and Arrington. For those of you not familiar with the story yet, the Faculty Senate recently passed a resolution in support of domestic partner benefits (DPB) at UTK, and Chancellors Cheek and Arrington sent a brief, dismissive reply that alleged they cannot even start a dialogue on this issue because offering any DPB runs counter to state policy. Keith has forwarded his open response letter with personal communications to all Vice Chancellors and the media, though response has not been what we would like. It is worth noting that the lgbt.utk.edu site got a lot of hits on Thursday, so the message is getting out. Also, some reporters are keeping their eyes on the situation. In fact, WATE will air the story tonight at 6pm.

Keith will continue to try to keep our presence in the media, and letters to the editor would be helpful, if you'd like to write one. Also please forward any news to the listserv. There has been no response from the Chancellors or the administration yet, but I'm sure we will hear something.

Some Commission members suggested rallies, pickets and/or petitions as part of this effort, which would be welcome & supported by the Commission.

The actual legal basis of the Chancellors' dismissal of the issue is somewhat ambiguous. Their letter did not specify which state policies we would be breaking, but one might assume they were referring to the DOMA amendment to our state constitution, which defines marriage as between one man and one woman. Since DPB are offered to partners, not spouses, this policy is irrelevant to the conversation. However, there is a state-level committee that determines what benefits may be offered by state institutions, and they have a policy of no DPB. However, this is not a law on the books, merely the policy of an appointed committee. Wendy Bach will pull together some more information on the legal basis of the conversation.

Keith suggested our goal should be to let the Chancellors know they cannot just shut the conversation down. The Faculty Senate will make a formal response to the Chancellors' letter in the next couple of months. Perhaps we could work with the Faculty Senate to pass this resolution every year. Senate members are upset about the brevity and dismissiveness of the response and are not going to let the issue go easily.

Perhaps the Commission could ask Chancellor Cheek for a meeting? Keith suggested we give it a month or two for the various responses to appear, and then we could ask the Chancellor to come respond to us in person. We could even appeal to the President of the system to come and respond to us on the issue. Even though we exist as an advisory body to the Chancellor, if he refuses to hear our advice, we could go over his head. Chancellor Cheek's general disinclination to listen to our advice as a Commission may be challenged by the new Vice Chancellor for Diversity, who will be a voice for diversity on the Chancellor's cabinet. We'll have to be sure to ask the candidates whether they will be our voice, and be honest and forthcoming about our issues with the Chancellor. Keith also pointed out we'll need to reach out to all the Vice Chancellors on LGBT issues in general, since they are the Chancellor's cabinet, and if it's on their minds, it will hopefully also be on his mind.

Alumni who are upset about this DPB issue should email Vice Chancellor for Alumni Affairs Scott Rabenold (srabenol@utk.edu), the Development Office, and UT's foundation.

It was pointed out that there was no openly LGBT person on the search committee for the Vice Chancellor for Diversity, though the Commission for Women had a representative and efforts were made to include African-American members. When CDI realized this last year, they wrote a letter to Dr. Bob Rider and the Chancellor asking for representation to be appointed, but were told it was too late because the search committee had already been formed. (This should be noted in any communications with the President of the system.) It is worth noting that committee members felt confident in their ability to address LGBT issues in the search.

We do not know yet what staff and resources will be under the control of the VC for Diversity. It could be that this person will need to fight for resources and staff.

XII. Committee Reports and Membership

a. Alumni Development; Co-Chairs Wendy Bach & Phyliss Shey

Alumni event will probably revolve around iO Tillet Wright's visit to UT last year for her Self-Evident Truths photo project, and this committee is also working to decide what resources should appear on the lgbt alumni webpage.

Make sure to check out VolAware on the pedestrian walkway today. Megan will email out dates & times when volunteers are needed to present to classes.

This committee is working on plans to survey LGBT students about barriers and needs (more qualitative information rather than quantitative), to consolidate research that has happened or is happening for wider applicability, and getting some trans resources on the lgbt website. They are also looking at some grants for assessment and other things.

e. Membership; Chair Lars Dzikus

f. OUTreach; Chair Donna Braquet

Lots of events are coming up at the OUTreach Center; you'll get emails to let you know about all of them. The Coming Out Day flash mob will probably be

We have received no nominations.
Anyone who is affiliated with UT is eligible to serve as the chair.
We would prefer someone who has served on the commission.
Self nominations are also welcome.
Have to be in by March 11, and we will vote at the April Meeting.
If we don't have a chair, we don't have a Commission.
Anyone who is interested, feel free to ask Keith what this entails.
There are ways to decrease the burden on the Chair (i.e., having a Commission member attend certain meetings instead of the Chair).
